Modernizing Mystery Babylon

- The Fall of the East Roman Empire sets stage for Modern Mystery Babylon.
- George Gemistos Plethon moves to Florence, Italy to set up The Platonic Academy to teach Neoplatonism and Hermeticism.

Modernizing Mystery Babylon

- This school influences both the Medicis and leading intellectuals of the Renaissance.
- Those intellectuals found two streams of thought that influence to two modern architects of modern Mystery Babylon: Darwin and Hegel

A scenic view of a city at sunset, with a large red text box overlaid. The text box contains the question: "What is the full name of the founder of modern evolutionary theory?". The background shows a cityscape with a river, buildings, and a large dome, likely St. Peter's Basilica in Rome, under a dramatic sky with sunbeams breaking through clouds.

What is the full name of the founder of modern evolutionary theory?

Georg W.F. Hegel

- This world-spirit begins as unconscious reason in the evolution of nature and evolves to consciousness in human history.
- Hegel saw the state as a conscious rationality that had divine nature as god on earth.
- This evolved world-spirit, the divine state, would reunite with the infinite, completing god's evolution.

Georg W.F. Hegel

- God evolved in his march through history through means of world-historical nations and world-historical individuals (Nietzschean supermen were based on this) which are the focus of divine activity.
- The individual person has real existence only in relation to the state and by virtue of the will of the state. [Man is nothing more than an intersection of constructs of the state]

Evolution's Assumptions

- Uniformitarianism
- Methodological Naturalism
- Deep Time

Hyper-Uniformitarianism

- Hyper-Uniformitarianism presupposes absolute uniformity of causes in a closed system.
- Debunked by quantum mechanics and Big Bang Cosmology
- These assert the existence of contexts where the laws of physics break down

Methodological Naturalism

- Methodological Naturalism presupposes only naturalistic explanations are feasible.
- Debunked by quantum mechanics, biosemiotics, and informatics
- These recognize that physical laws are insufficient to explain information systems, but also necessary initial conditions from outside

Deep Time

- Deep Time presupposes that long ages of uniformity exist to do anything (i.e. billions of years or longer)
- Debunked by the James Webb Telescope

James Webb Telescope

- The James Webb Telescope designed to detect deep infrared.
- Looks at infrared range for galaxies that would be “doppler-shifted” to the earliest ages of the universe.
- Found galaxies far more advanced than the Standard Model indicates

James Webb Telescope

- Some have hinted that these findings falsify the Big Bang.
- The James Webb Telescope designed to detect presupposes the Standard Model, so it cannot completely falsify the Big Bang. (Dr Stephen Meyer)
- It does not falsify the cosmic background radiation evidence for the Big Bang. (Meyer)
- It does falsify the assumption of Deep Time.
